

Red China Flies Flag From U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The gold-starred red flag of Communist China was hoisted for the first time at U.N. headquarters today.

The historic task fell to two Americans, Willard Bodie, 28, and George Baldwin, 28, who with 10 other blue-uniformed U.N. guards routinely raise the flags of all 131 member countries each weekday morning.

The guards raised the blood-red flag of China for the first time since the nation was voted into the U.N. a week ago. The flags are in alphabetical order and China's is 23rd.

A 30-strong crowd of news photographers and television cameramen provided the only color in a light drizzle under cloudy skies.

Acting Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei messaged Secretary-General U Thant Sunday that his country should be listed on the U.N. rolls "with the English letter 'C' at the beginning, that is, China, People's Republic of."

That meant that Peking's seat in the General Assembly hall and its flag on the poles outside would, like Nationalist China's before, be between Chile's and Colombia's instead of down in the P's. The flagpole had been flagless since Chiang Kai-shek's government was expelled from the United Nations on Oct. 25.

New York's Rockefeller Center also flies the flags of all U. N. members around its plaza, and China's flagpole there also has been without a flag for the past week. A spokesman said Sunday night that the Communist Chinese flag had been ordered from the same flagmaker that made the U.N.'s, but it had not arrived yet.

Chi's message also cleared the way for Poland to be president of the Security Council in November instead of being bumped a month back in the alphabetical order by the People's Republic. As "China," Peking will not get the presidency until next July.

Chi messaged Thant on Friday that his government would send a delegation "in the near future" to the General Assembly. But he has not replied to another message from Thant, sent last Wednesday, asking him to name a representative to the Security Council as soon as possible.

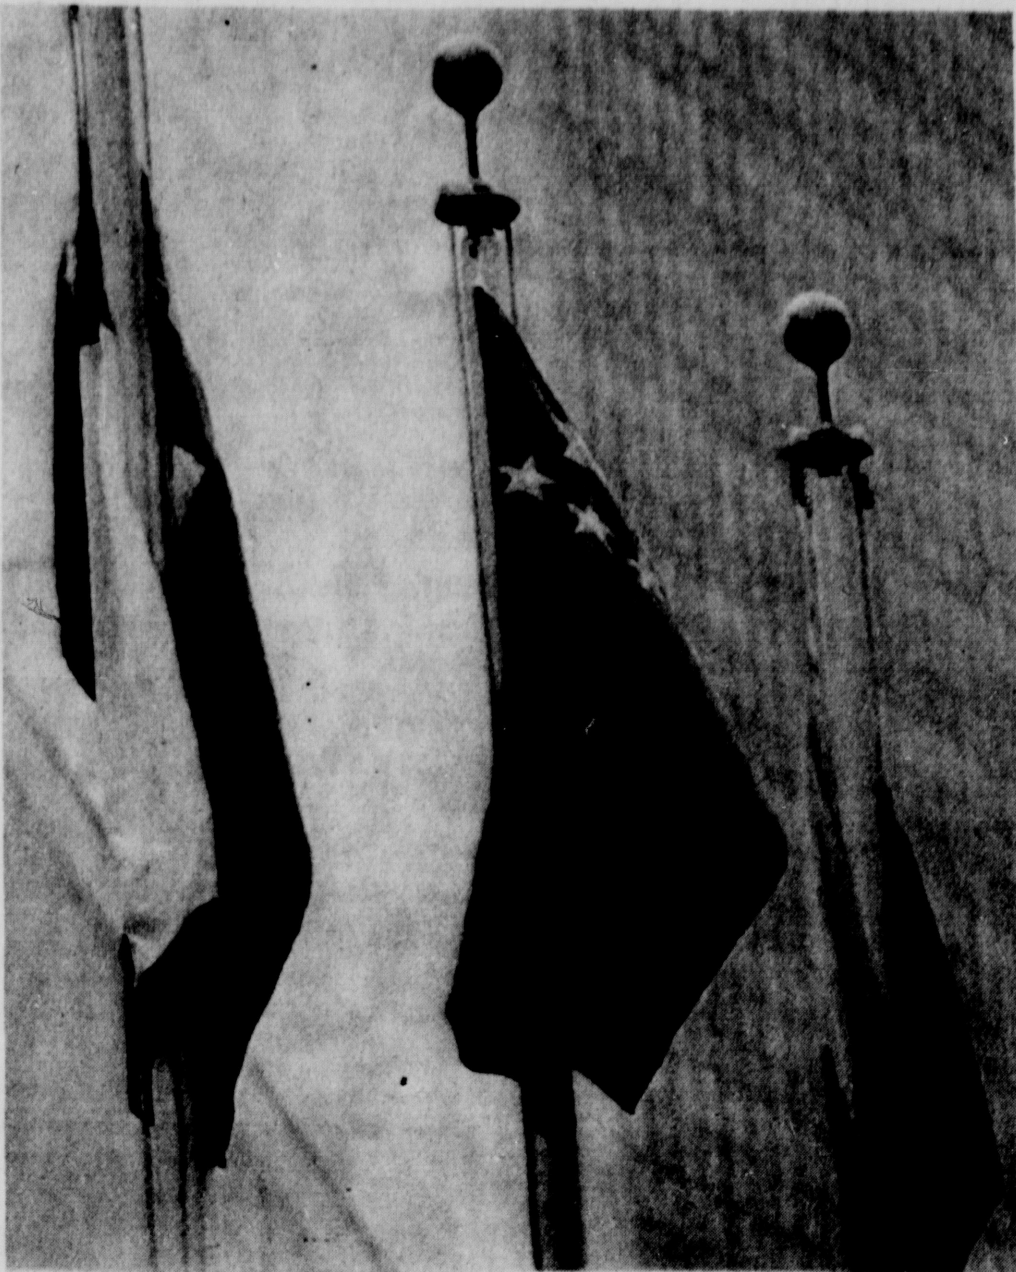

Delegates from governments close to Peking expect the first Chinese Communist delegation to arrive Thursday or Friday.

U. S. Ambassador George Bush, for whom the ouster of Nationalist China was a personal defeat, said in a television interview Sunday on ABC's Issues and Answers that Communist China's coming would make the U.N. "more a realistic mirror of the world."

He conceded that it would complicate the negotiations to name a new secretary-general to succeed Thant, which "must start soon," and would "cause some arguments and some crises."

"We are prepared to face this shifting around," he remarked. He expressed hope that Communist China would not be free without Security Council veto, and he reported that diplomats familiar with the Chinese Communists "do not think they will come simply to obstruct."

Bush accused Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., of playing "shabby politics" when he criticized President Nixon's China moves in a speech Friday.

Red China Flag Finally Flying....

Full Alert By Scotland Yard

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard ordered a full emergency alert today and posted police guards on public buildings throughout Britain following two mysterious bomb explosions in London.

One bomb early today blasted the headquarters of the Royal Tank Regiment a quarter of a mile from the houses of parliament. Twenty-one hours earlier another ripped a hole in the 31st floor of the Post Office Tower, the tallest building in Britain.

At first the explosions were believed to be the work of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which has threatened to extend to Britain its guerrilla war on British troops in Northern Ireland. But the IRA in Dublin denied bombing the Post Office Tower.

This morning an anonymous telephone caller claimed both explosions were set off by the Angry Brigade, a secret anarchist movement dedicated to wrecking British society by violence. The call to the British Press Association claimed the Post Office Tower was bombed to protest Britain's entry into the European Common Market and the blast at the Army barracks was to demonstrate against the government's handling of the crisis in Northern Ireland.

Guards will be out in force at Parliament Tuesday when Queen Elizabeth II opens a new session.

The Angry Brigade has been blamed for half a dozen previous explosions in London, including blasts at the home of a government minister and the head of the Scotland Yard police force.

No one was injured in the weekend blasts.

Guards were posted on public buildings and communications centers in London. Scotland Yard flashed warnings to cities around the island, giving lists of possible bomb targets. Police throughout England, Scotland and Wales took up security stations.

The 2 a.m. blast at the barracks, which were occupied by a caretaker and his family, damaged heavy teak doors at the main entrance and shattered windows but caused no casualties.

The explosion of the 31st story of the Post Office Tower—one of London's most popular tourist attractions with a panoramic view of London—knocked out communications with some parts of Europe for several hours. Chunks of masonry and twisted girder were hurled over a wide area at the foot of the building, but no one was hurt.

In Northern Ireland, the death toll in two years of communal warfare between Roman Catholics and Protestants rose to 145 with the death of a British soldier wounded four days ago and the discovery of the body of a 19-year-old Protestant who had been gagged, bound and shot in the back of the head. Security authorities believed he was killed by an IRA execution squad.

Fluoridation Is Expected At Council

The naming of six members to an environmental quality commission and final action on the possible fluoridation of the city's drinking water are expected to highlight activity at the City Council meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at city hall.

Mayor Jerry Jones said last week that Bill Hall, Industrial Development director and five private citizens will be selected at the council meeting Monday. Two other members of the eight-man commission are to be chosen from the council and the Sedalia Planning and Zoning Commission.

Fluoridation has been a measure under study for several weeks by the council. At the last council meeting two weeks ago, views on the subject were expressed by proponents and opponents of the issue. The fluoridation ordinance has been read three times by the council and its consideration for final passage is expected at tonight's meeting.

In other action, 369 coupons, representing bonds totaling nearly $25,000 from the Sedalia Municipal Airport, Rival Manufacturing Co., Duke Manufacturing Co., Sedalia Parking System and the Highway Urban Trafficway accounts will be destroyed.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said bids will also be opened on corrugated metal pipe for city construction work, and applications for liquor licenses will be reviewed.

Mortgages, Credit Under Study By New Committees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's new committee on interest and dividends will concentrate first on mortgage and consumer credit and other rates directly affecting families, but does not expect mandatory controls on them, the committee's chairman, Arthur F. Burns, said today.

Burns, whose full-time post is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, testified before the House Banking Committee. Some of its members have said the interest sections of Nixon's proposed Phase 2 legislation need strengthening.

The President has asked for only standby control power over interest and dividends and administration spokesmen said they do not expect these to be used, except on a voluntary basis.

Burns told the House committee a successful wage and price program will in the long run tend to bring interest rates down, but "the outlook for interest rates over the next year or so nevertheless remains uncertain."

The money market, he said, will be subject to conflicting pressures. If the prospect of inflation declines, interest rates should come down, but as business gains momentum there will be more demand for credit, with a tendency to push rates up, he said.

He said that rates on mortgages and consumer loans are among the less flexible, tending to lag behind rate changes in the more open money markets. The prime purpose of the supervisory committee, he said, will be to try to reduce such lags.

But Burns came out strongly against mandatory controls on interest rates:

"Let us never forget that while a legislature may impose an interest ceiling it has no way of compelling the owner of investible funds to lend them out to anyone."

Statements To Reflect Levy Hike

Pettis County tax statements, which will be mailed to county residents this week, will reflect a 3-cent tax hike.

The tax rate was raised from 47 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 50 cents by the County Court last summer, after the County Board of Equalization and the Board of Appeals completed their work, according to Judge E. L. Birdsong of the eastern district.

The hike will bring in an additional $23,110.72 per year in general revenue, Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county clerk, said.

Birdsong pointed out that until 1954 the tax rate was 50 cents per $100. But because of surplus in tax revenues then, the county court lowered the rate to 47 cents. "We ran out of that surplus money and had to go back to 50 cents tax rate to meet the new demand on our budget," he explained.

Birdsong listed the following obligations of the county that have necessitated the tax hike:

The Surplus Commodity Food Program, the County Health Nurse, the Buena Vista Nursing Home subsidies, the County Civil Defense program and support of the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission.

Western District Judge Zeb Thomas pointed out that in addition to these "add-ons," the county has had no programs to make money comparable to Sedalia's 1-cent sales tax hike. "The county is not benefitting from the city sales tax revenue, although county residents do most of their shopping in the city," Thomas explained.

He added, "Approximately 70 per cent of the people benefitting from the donated commodity food program are city residents, and yet the city won't pay anything to keep the program alive. They expect the county to pay for this program."

The county pays $371 a month, 20 per cent of the total cost, toward the program, effective this Monday.

Prices of office supplies also have increased, Birdsong pointed out. "Typewriters used to cost anywhere between $50 and $70. Now electric typewriters cost nearly $300. Postal rate has gone up from 5 cents to 8 cents and so have telephone rates," he said.

Burns said ceilings set without regard to market conditions could simply result in the transfer of funds, for example, from mortgages to other investments, or the use of various devices, such as points and compensating balances, to increase the effective cost of borrowing money.

As for dividends, for which Nixon also is asking only standby control powers, Burns said they represent a less troublesome problem than interest rates.

He said that in general his committee thinks that any increases in dividends permitted during Phase 2 should be related to the amount of raises allowed for wage earners.

As the House hearings began, the machinery of Nixon's economic program is being hammered together to the tune of controversy in Congress and tough talk by labor.

Revival Possible?

Studying Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee met today amid the ruins of the U.S. foreign aid program, and one member said there was general agreement to put it back together.

"There's no disposition anywhere to kill the bill," said Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., outside the closed-door committee session.

McGee said he anticipated there would be a resolution to continue the spending authority of the foreign aid agency, which expires Nov. 15, to keep the program alive and its personnel paid until a new bill can be assembled.

But he said there was disagreement as to how long such a resolution should run. McGee said he thinks it should extend until Jan. 1.

McGee also said there probably would be an effort by the committee to develop an interim foreign aid bill to replace the one the Senate killed in a startling Friday night vote. He said he could not forecast what specific items would be included, but that an interim measure would be likely to concentrate on economic and social assistance programs.

McGee said a continuing resolution now and an interim bill later would give the committee the chance to draft a major measure, restructuring the program "in a serious manner."

He said that would take months of work but probably could be ready by next June 30, the next expiration date for foreign aid.

In the House, Chairman George Mahon of the Appropriations Committee said he hopes to win approval of a "quickie

President Nixon has named the members of the Wage Board and Price Commission who have the job of setting standards to prevail when the present absolute freeze is allowed to that after Nov. 13.

But Donald Rumsfeld, executive director of the Cost of Living Council, said the freeze will remain in full effect until modified—even if the modifications are not ready by Nov. 13.

As the House Banking Committee opened hearings on the legislation Nixon has requested for continuing controls, AFL-CIO President George Meany, who is a member of the Wage Board, declared "The test of our continued cooperation is the administration's commitment to equality of sacrifice."

Meany contended the legislation as submitted does not meet the test.

Other labor spokesmen made it plain they will press hard for retroactive payment of the wage increases now frozen.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally told the committee nothing in the proposed legislation would forbid such payments. But Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans said such payments would be "highly damaging to business."

Sunday, Herbert Stein, the economist in charge of planning Phase 2, said he hoped Meany wouldn't try to challenge any Pay Board decisions. His remarks were in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report.

Nixon's request for extension of control authority a full year — until April 30, 1973, prompted several congressmen to respond that Congress should have an earlier chance to review Phase 2.

Sen. Fulbright . . . talking it over stopgap" resolution to continue foreign aid while Congress works on a permanent compromise.

The Texas Democrat said the resolution would continue the aid program as is but only for 30 days while Congress seeks a solution to the situation created by the Senate vote to kill the program when its authority expires Nov. 15.

"This is not a settlement of the controversy over foreign aid," Mahon said of the resolution, "it is just a stopgap."

Mahon said he has not yet consulted with House leaders but hopes the House can pass the resolution about the middle of next week to give the Senate time to act before Nov. 15.

Meanwhile, the Senate Foreign Relations committee conferred amid the ruins of the aid program on how to put it back together.

Committee chairman Sen. J.W. Fulbright predicted Senate approval of a stopgap aid program, although he said the committee may do no more than discuss the alternatives today.

President Nixon let it be known he wants temporary extension of a coordinated aid bill while he drafts a new assistance program.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott also urged passage of an interim program and called on Congress to develop a new bill "to keep the peace." He said he supports temporary extension of aid at existing levels.

Continuing Phaseout in Vietnam As Troops Dip Below 200,000 Level

SAIGON (AP) — Thirteen more U.S. Army units totaling 1,335 men were phased out of combat today, prior to withdrawal from Vietnam, and the U.S. Command said American troop strength in the country was reduced to 196,700 men last week.

Informed sources disclosed that Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is bringing to Saigon Wednesday a broad outline of President Nixon's plan to speed up the disengagement of U.S. ground forces from the war.

The sources speculated that the Nixon administration is thinking in terms of a residual force of 40,000 to 50,000 troops—and perhaps less—by July 1.

Laird will spend three days in Saigon meeting with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of American forces in Vietnam, President Nguyen Van Thieu and other Vietnamese officials.

The troop strength figure of 196,700 men, the lowest since January 1966, does not include the 1,335 phased out today nor another 2,890 which the U.S. Command announced had been moved out of combat zones in connection with the deactivation Sunday of the Americal Division. Deactivation of the Americal leaves only one full U.S. combat division in Vietnam, compared to the equivalent of 11 1-3 divisions at the peak of the war.

Today the Saigon government observed South Vietnam's National Day with prayers for peace and tributes to the 135,000 government troops killed in action since 1960. The holiday, eighth anniversary of the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem, was designated a day of prayers for peace.

American forces were on a special alert in anticipation of enemy attacks during the holiday and the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu Sunday. But the battlefields were reported quiet, and it was disclosed that U.S. air strikes are at their lowest level this year.

Informed sources said Air Force fighter-bombers averaged only 10 missions per day last week, compared to more than double that number the week before. B52 bombers have flown only two missions in South Vietnam in the past nine days, the sources said.

"The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are just not attacking, they're not moving," said one source. "We attack targets, and this (drop in air strikes) reflects a lack of targets. The enemy is not doing much. The over-all level of activity speaks for itself."

Sources said they did not know the Communist command's intentions or whether the low level of activity was a signal to the United States. The sources said they could not rule out the possibility that the enemy may be holding off for President Nixon's announcement in mid-November of his new withdrawal plans.

During his inauguration Sunday for his second four-year term, President Thieu called again for an immediate ceasefire and proposed an exchange of mail and of visits by people of North and South Vietnam while awaiting reunification.

One of Thieu's leading foes, retired Gen. Duong Van Minh, said in a National Day statement that the improvement in relations between the United States and Red China may create conditions favorable to peace in Indochina.

Put Those Old Wigs To Some New Uses

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Betty S. could use her old wigs for dad or the kids to wear as part of their costumes for costume parties. They could be dyed green, made into Shirley Temple curls, etc. A local school might like to have them for use in their plays. Of course, they should be clean when sent and the children could wear their own stocking caps under the wigs as a sanitary measure. — DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY — Betty S. might use her old wig to make some pin-on curls and tendrils. Cut six-inch lengths about the thickness of a pencil. Use surgical glue to paste ends together. Tie up the ends with heavy thread. To pin on, slip a bobby pin through the tie. — SUZANNE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My two little boys have scratched my front living room window with their toys or sharp instruments and I would like to know if there is any way I can remove these scratches. — GERALDINE

DEAR POLLY — We buy flour in 50-pound bags and these cloth bags could so easily be used for making pillow slips, aprons, dish towels, clothespin bags, etc., but they are printed in blue and red colors that will not wash out. Why can't these bags be printed with floral or other attractive patterns and then printed paper labels attached to the bags. I for one simply refuse to buy the bag with the label smeared all over it in stubborn ink. — MRS. A. K.

DEAR POLLY — Those who like to sew but hate the back-breaking job of bending over the kitchen table to cut out garments might do as I do. Four one-pound-sized cans, opened or unopened, can solve the problem. Place one under each table leg and the table will be just the right height for a cutting table.

I am sure some of you girls have husbands who can never tell if socks are dark blue or black and often end up wearing blue socks with a green suit. One-quart freezer cups are perfect containers for his socks and they can be labeled — one black, one blue, one green and so on. When his socks are put away in the drawer each color is put in the proper cup and never again will he be confused about which socks to wear. — MRS. F. T.

Old Woman Gives Advice to Teen

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the 17-year-old who fantasized about his death in an automobile accident was one of the most blood-chilling but effective pieces of writing I have ever read. Thank you for printing it, Ann. Here is another bit of fantasy. If you think it has value, publish it because it is 95 per cent true. The only sentence that is an invention is the first one.

Dear 17 and Too Young To Die: I am the old lady you chose to pass on the highway at the wrong moment. I would give anything if I could trade places with you. I am 67 and have known for some time that I will die within a year from an incurable illness. I am able to function at present but it is just a matter of time before I will be bed-ridden and then the agony of wasting away.

What a cruel trick of fate that a person who would welcome death is denied it while a young lad such as you...so full of the exuberance of life, with the whole world at his feet, should be snuffed out like a candle in the wind.

A word to the young and healthy, to those who have dreams and hopes: Savor each moment, enjoy what you have. Cherish every day. But be careful. Live not for the moment, but for the years ahead that can be yours. — Alaska

Dear Alaska: Thank you for a beautiful bit of philosophy. It will please you to know that the letter you wrote about will continue to be read by teenagers all over the country. More than 100 high school editors asked for permission to reprint that letter in their school papers.

Dear Ann Landers: You are out of your corn-pickin' mind. Your advice to the woman over 40 who is a competent and experienced secretary but no 36-26-34 stank out loud. You suggested that she let her friends know she is looking for a job.

Don't you realize that the losers have no friends? The moment they lose — whether it's a job, a spouse, a child, or money — they find out what it's like to be alone. It's the same the world over. There's a great flurry of attention — for four days. Then comes the well-worn phrase — "If I can do anything just let me know." After that, it's a total fade-out and they are never heard from again.

If you're going to be an effective advisor you'd better pull off the rose-colored glasses and tell it like it is, Annie Baby. The 40-plus gal who wrote was giving you the straight story. Women over 40 ARE discriminated against in the job market and that's the God's truth. — Another Texas Retread

Doctor Can Diagnose Problem With Worms

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Two years ago after having a bad case of flu I went to blow my nose and what I thought was accumulation of mucus, about the size of a ball point pen, came out. Three months ago I coughed and the same thing happened only I had to grab a hold of it and pull it out. I am wondering if this could have been a tapeworm. If it were mucus it would have broken. There were no signs of a head. I am 67 and tire so easy. I have headaches all the time. Up until a year ago I worked as a saleslady for 40 years. So I am not lazy, just don't feel like doing anything. How can I tell if this is tapeworm? I am ashamed to even go see a doctor about it.

Dear Reader — It isn't a tapeworm. They are flat like a tape measure and connected in segments which break apart easily. About the only worm that could conceivably be near the size and shape you describe would be a "Round worm" (ascariasis). Adult worms have been described coming from the nose and even the ear. I am skeptical about your having any infestation. If you had any real thought at the time that the object was a worm you should have saved it to let the doctor examine it. If you do have a round worm infection your doctor can easily diagnose it from eggs in your stool.

Go see your doctor. You won't be the first patient who ever worried about worms and if you have them they won't be the first worms he has seen. You need to find out why you are tired and have so many headaches.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I wish there was some nice, clean way to ask this question but I have pondered over it for nearly a year and can't find any special way, so here goes. There is something that feels like an inner tube, or even firmer, hanging out of my vagina — what is it and what to do?

Also, I stopped menstruating when I was 37, one year after my fourth baby was born. I stopped completely. I am now 61 years old. If I ever start again will it be cancer?

Dear Reader — Your problem is most likely related to your four pregnancies. With childbirth the muscles at the outlet of the pelvis and those that provide support to the uterus and bladder are often stretched or even torn. The uterus and bladder tend to fall through the pelvic wall to protrude. Sometimes a woman is more apt to get infections of the bladder with this type of problem.

The difficulty can be corrected surgically by replacing the structures and tightening up the relaxed or torn muscles.

Bleeding after the menopause does not always signal cancer but it is certainly a valid reason for an immediate examination since it can be.

Sweet Springs Is Included In National Survey

SWEET SPRINGS — Students at the R-7 school here are participating in a national study designed to evaluate educational efforts, according to Robert Longwith, superintendent.

One of 950 districts throughout the nation to be selected for the study, the R-7 district began the first part of the study, designed for junior high age students, in mid-October. High school students will take part in the study this spring.

The national assessment covers 19 areas of study, Longwith said, including science, writing, citizenship, reading, literature, mathematics, art, career and occupational development, music and social studies.

Tidal Wave Strikes At Bay of Bengal

NEW DELHI (AP) — A 16-foot tidal wave swept through villages along the Bay of Bengal last Friday and local political leaders estimated, after a tour of the area, that 15,000 persons, perhaps as many as 20,000, had perished.

The Indian government radio put the total at 10,000.

It reported that at least a million homes had been destroyed or damaged so severely as to leave 4 million persons homeless in the newest disaster to afflict the Indian subcontinent.

The Cuttack and Balasore districts of eastern Orissa State, 150 miles southeast of Calcutta, appeared to be the areas hardest hit by the tidal wave and accompanying cyclonic winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

The Times of India, in a dispatch from Cuttack, said air drops of food were urgently required in some areas where all roads, rail lines and air strips had been flooded or destroyed.

The low-lying coastal villages are the target of annual cyclonic storms and tidal waves that roar in from the Bay of Bengal and devastate an impoverished region of

Variety Is Noted In Thefts

Thieves apparently were not interested in expensive items so much over the Halloween weekend as they were in variety.

In a rash of thefts from yards and autos, such items as a pumpkin and two candles, a ceramic swan, a statue of a "Bashful Girl," a set of five wrenches and two stereo tapes were taken.

Richard Smith, 240 East Boonville, reported to police at 2:01 a.m. Sunday that a ceramic swan was taken from his front yard. The swan was recovered by police Monday.

Pearl Otten, 1007 West 11th, reported the statue of the "Bashful Girl" was taken from his yard. It was valued at $25.

It was not known if the great pumpkin was seen over the weekend, but Jim Coots, 2204 South Vermont, reported to police a regular pumpkin and two candles were stolen from his porch Sunday night.

In a more mundane theft, two stereo tapes were taken from the car of James M. Blain, 1103 State Fair Blvd.

Rick Barnes, 215 Rainbow Drive, reported to police that a set of five metric wrenches were stolen from his unlocked car, while it was parked at 1402 South Stewart Friday night.

Surgery Necessary For Work Accident

A Sedalian was rushed to Bothwell Hospital Sunday afternoon after being involved in a work accident at the Swift & Co. Dairy & Poultry Plant, 226 West Pacific.

Virgil Bradley, Route 5, underwent immediate surgery to have his hand amputated after his arm was caught in a turkey processing machine called a tendon puller at the plant.

A hospital spokesman reported Bradley was in good condition Monday.

Television Theft Over the Weekend

Sedalia police received reports of an attempted break-in and the theft of a color television set from homes in the city over the Halloween weekend.

Mrs. Charles W. Wiser, 431 East Saline, said that someone tried to enter her home early Sunday morning. A screen on a storm door was broken, along with the panel out of another door, she told police.

Dan Sizemore, 517 East 26th, reported to police at 8:16 a.m. that a color television set, valued at $270, was taken from his home. There were no signs of forcible entry, according to the police report.

held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Kidwell Funeral Home with the Rev. Frank Ebright officiating.

Burial was in Tuscumbia Cemetery.

George Green

CLIMAX SPRINGS — Funeral services for George Green, 79, who died Friday afternoon at the Veterans Hospital in Kansas, were held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Assembly of God Church here.

Burial was in Parrack Grove Cemetery.

Clarence C. Cramer

STRAFFORD, Mo. — Funeral services for Clarence C. Cramer, 78, Route 3, formerly of Sedalia, who died Friday at the Cox Medical Center, Springfield, were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Bass Chapel Church near Strafford with the Rev. Lester Rogers officiating.

Burial was in Dishman Cemetery.

East Pakistan and India in which the inhabitants survive on a bare subsistence diet even in the best of times.

A storm and tidal wave last November killed at least 300,000 persons in the Ganges river basin in East Pakistan 300 miles northeast of the disaster area this weekend.

The weekend storm passed Sunday from Orissa to neighboring West Bengal state, destroying homes and rice crops in coastal villages that only two months ago were ravaged by the annual monsoon floods.

The area in West Bengal is filled with East Pakistani refugee camps, but initial reports said most of the camps had escaped the brunt of the storm.

Orissa is mostly a hilly region where the annual rainfall is 40-60 inches. Several mountain streams and rivers provide flood water irrigation. As in West Bengal, to the northeast, rice is among the most important crops.

The area of East Pakistan and India around the Bay of Bengal has been called "Cyclone Alley," where storms hit in the spring and the fall with a devastating regularity. Historians say 300,000 persons died in the Bay of Bengal area from storms and tidal waves in 1737. More recent bad years include 1960, 1963, 1965 and 1969.

Last year's tidal wave that killed 300,000 persons in East Pakistan was described by one witness as having a cold luminous glow like "the flickering light of an unfocused television tube."

Vandalism Sustained By Autos

Car owners had a bad time Saturday in Sedalia with at least 10 reported incidents in which cars were painted with gold, black and maroon paint. Another such incident involved ink.

Most of the vandalism was confined to the 1000, 1100, 1200 and 2100 blocks of West 11th. Another car was painted at Townhouse Manor, 10th and State Fair Blvd.

Police Chief William Miller said the incidents were apparently caused by juveniles and the reports were turned over to the Pettis County Juvenile officer.

Several reports concerning the incidents specified that a red Volkswagen was seen in the area.

Cars that were reported damaged during the rash of vandalism were listed as belonging to Marie Gillespie, 1101 West 11th; Ralph Brown, Warrensburg; Collin Gray, 1002 West 11th; Larry Butrick, Route 3; Velma Burkholder, Townhouse Manor; Don Harrison, 1216 West 11th; and Hillary Norton, 1000 West 14th.

A passing motorist discovered that a 1971 Cadillac, a 1963 Dodge and a 1963 Mercury Comet were also painted. The identity of the owners of the latter three cars was not given.

Miller said that except for the painting vandalism, the Halloween weekend was a comparatively quiet one. Miller said there seemed to be fewer youngsters out for trick or treat activities than in previous years.

There were no reports of children receiving either adulterated candies or foreign objects imbedded in fruits such as last year, when a razor blade was found in an apple, and laxatives were disguised as candy.

Environment Losing To Big Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today turned down requests by environmentalists to halt a huge underground nuclear explosion set for this week on Amchitka Island in Alaska.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr.'s ruling frees lawyers for groups protesting the blast to file an immediate appeal to a higher court.

Hart, who was asked by attorneys for the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility what he planned to do about their request for an injunction, also ruled on a parallel issue. That involves disputed and secret documents which conservationists say can prove their contention that the five-megaton explosion can trigger earthquakes and tidal waves, kill wildlife and permit radioactive leaks.

Hart ordered the Justice Department to turn over some of the documents to environmentalist lawyers, while others were to be kept secret under the legal doctrine known as executive privilege.

As the legal maneuvering continued, it appeared likely that both the issue of the documents and whether the blast would go off at all would reach the Supreme Court before Thursday. Some sources have said that's when the explosion is due to be set off 6,000 feet underground by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Chamber To Provide Price Ceiling Forms

The Chamber of Commerce will furnish request ceiling price information forms from the Office of Emergency Preparedness to local retailers who are chamber members, according to Chuck Lawrence, executive manager of the chamber.

Lawrence said Monday most retailers had indicated to him they planned to display their own signs describing information on prices in their establishment.

Last Thursday the Cost of Living Council allowed businessmen the option of making available lists of maximum allowable prices they sell or provide consumers with specific price information within 48 hours.

Lawrence said the reply forms are available to retailers at the chamber office.

Pay Worry May Occupy Police Board

A major topic of discussion at the 7 p.m. Tuesday meeting of the Police Personnel board at city hall may be the problem of the Sedalia Police Department in retaining enough trained officers.

Police Chief William Miller said he was becoming disenchanted over the use of his department as a training ground for police. He said that the lower starting salary offered in Sedalia for police officers was not competitive with other cities in this part of the state.

"About 80 to 90 per cent of the officers who leave the department are leaving because of the pay situation here," Miller said. "Just recently, three officers left to go to Blue Springs and Overland Park, Kan.," he added.

Miller said that the $397 starting pay here was not competitive with other regional police department's salaries. He said a starting pay of at least $450 is needed to attract good men.

Although Miller was not specific as to pay scales in other communities, he said that many "rookie" officers in other cities were making $517 after a few months, a salary requiring 10 years experience in the Sedalia force.

Miller indicated that the annual attrition rate on the city police force was roughly 12 men a year and most of the resignations were strictly due to low pay.

"It takes a year to train and properly equip every policeman who goes on the force here and I am tired of training men to a high level of competence only to see them leave," Miller complained.

Continuing Probe Into Drug Theft

Investigation into the theft of 5,125 amphetamine tablets and capsules from Hurtt Pharmacy, 504 West 16th, last Wednesday is continuing, according to Police Chief William Miller.

The drug theft, it was learned Saturday, is the largest haul of barbiturates and amphetamines taken in three years in Sedalia.

Among the drugs taken were Eskatrol, Dexedrine, Perke capsules, Amphobese, Desoxyn, Desbutal, Biphedamine, Ben

Some farmers still do not understand where the extra acres come from. Those acres became available for crops when the Feed Grain Program was changed so that no payments were made for setting aside more than 20 per cent of the base acreage.

The big yields per acre are a surprise to many of us, in view of widespread blight and shortage of rainfall during the growing season. Although the blight appeared in many fields, it did little damage in most cases. The dry summer was offset by early planting, a warm June, and a relatively cool July and August.

While the corn crop will total about 5.4 billion bushels, domestic use and exports are likely to take no more than 4.7 billion. Thus, the crop is expected to exceed use by about 700 million bushels. Only once before — in 1948 — has the crop exceeded needs by such an amount.

The USDA price-support loan program is keeping prices at close to a $1 a bushel. If farmers put enough corn under loan, the market price will rise to 10 to 15 cents over the loan — but only a relatively few farmers would be able to redeem and sell their corn at that price.

Soybean Supply Short

The soybean crop is still short of normal market needs. The official October estimate was 1,175 million bushels, just 40 million bushels more than last year. The carryover of old beans on September 1 was only 98 million bushels, compared with 230 million a year earlier. Hence, the supply for the present marketing year will be about 1.273 million bushels. But at least 50 million bushels will be needed for year-end pipeline supplies, so the usable supply is no more than 1.223 million bushels.

This amount is considerably less than the use-and-export total during the past year, when disappearance was 1.268 million bushels. If the users of soybean meal and oil do not find satisfactory substitutes, a serious shortage of beans could develop next summer. The prospects for 1972 soybean acreage will soon become an important price-making factor.

D.H.I.A.

During the month of September Chancy and Lena Houseworth supervised the testing of 723 cows in 14 herds.

The five highest herds for the month were Larry McCollister, Longan Dairy, Cloyd Merk, Roland Oelrich and Paul Neel.

The highest producing individual cows for the month ranged from 2,370 pounds of milk and 100 pounds of butterfat down to 1,820 pounds of milk and 78 pounds of butterfat. Herds with highest individual cows were Longan Dairy farm with seven, Clyde Rehmer, Roland Oelrich and Paul Neel with one each.

Herds with cows completing the 305 day lactation records above 550 pounds butterfat were Clyde Rehmer with two, Richard Lenz with four and Robert Longan, Cloyd Merk and Roland Oelrich with one cow each.

Oat Varieties

Pettis, Jaycee and Nodaway 70 continue to be our suggested oat varieties for 1972. Nodaway 70 has been markedly lower in yield than Pettis and Jaycee, but it seems to be the best variety for those growers who place more emphasis on large seed size and standing ability than on yield.

Protect Buildings

Buildings covered with galvanized metal, correctly installed and properly grounded (connected with the earth by approved lightning conductors), have excellent protection from lightning. It is a relatively simple matter to install adequate grounds for the protection of metal covered buildings from lightning. However, a recent survey shows that 90 per cent of metal roofs on farm buildings are not properly grounded. The galvanized sheet constituting the roofing or siding of the building must be tightly nailed so that the whole area is in complete and permanent contact. Galvanized roofing should be grounded at diagonally opposite corners of the building. On buildings with large roof areas, the roof may well be grounded at each corner. In any case, the distance between grounds around the building should not be over 100 feet. Grounding conductors should be solidly and permanently connected with the metal roofing itself and should extend into the ground to the depth of permanent moisture — 6 to 10 feet.

Grounding cable of copper or steel (at least 3/8 inch diameter) can be attached firmly to roofing with at least two 3/8 inch machine bolts. Bent at right angles an inch below the head, these bolts are extended downward through holes drilled in the ridge of a corrugation and on through the sheathing. When nuts are drawn up, cable is securely held in the valley of the corrugation. Eighteen inches of cable should be in contact with the roof.

Chimneys, cupolas, etc., must be protected by a galvanized rod or pipe extending at least one foot above, and solidly attached to both chimney and roofing. To protect galvanized siding, it should be connected to roofing at all four corners, and on large buildings at intervals not greater than 50 feet.

Clover Mites
Clover mites are small, reddish brown plant feeding mites which do not bite humans.

Infestations in homes usually show up in relatively new subdivisions where grass vegetation is still rank and abundant.

The mites become a nuisance in the fall, when they attempt to enter the house, seeking a place to hibernate during the winter. Sometimes they will cover the sides of a house. Throughout the winter and spring, they will continue to reappear on warm days.

The best and simplest method of control is to remove all grass from a strip about 18 to 24 inches wide around the foundation of the building. This bare soil seems to serve as a barrier to the mites.

As an additional precaution, spray the foundation to the point of run-off using either two teaspoons 25 per cent chlorobenzilate emulsifiable concentrate or 1 tablespoon 25 per cent chlorobenzilate wettable powder, or one tablespoon 25 per cent Kelthane emulsifiable concentrate or

Feeder Calf Prices Reach Record Average

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of feeder calves hit a record average of $36.80 per hundredweight last month, according to the monthly price report issued by the Agriculture Department.

The average, for the month ended Oct. 15, was up 50 cents from September and topped the previous high of $36.40 set in March 1970, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Livestock specialists say demand for calves is being helped by the record feed supply this fall, partly on the part of feedlot operators but also by farmer-feeders who had cut back a year ago because of high corn prices.

Also, the experts say, the calf supply has been reduced by fewer heifers going into the commercial market. Many ranchers, particularly those in the southwest, are replenishing breeding herds after being forced to sell part of their stock because of the drought in 1970 and earlier this year.

The USDA index for all feeder livestock, including pigs and lambs as well as calves, was 129 per cent at mid-October. The index is based on 1967 average prices equaling 100 per cent. Thus, the October index showed feeder stock priced 29 per cent higher than four years ago.

Calf prices accounted for virtually all of the gain in the feeder index, the Crop Reporting Board said. In Oct. 1970 it was 120 per cent of the 1967 base.

Feeder calves are lumped together by USDA with market steers, heifers and cows when prices of "all cattle" are computed. Figures for those were unchanged in October, including a $1.30 average per 100 pounds for steers and heifers; $20.80 for cows; and $29.10 for all cattle.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An annual survey shows farmers last summer paid an average monthly telephone bill of $5.96 for local service, up 24 cents or four per cent from 1970.

The largest increase—five per cent—was reported in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, while the New England area had the smallest, two per cent, says the Agriculture Department.

The yearly summer survey was started in 1947, and local telephone service for farm families has increased steadily since then. Most telephones on farms then were battery or hand-cranked magneto types.

In 1947 the average farm phone bill was $2.05 per month. By 1960 it had risen to $4.42 but about 80 per cent of farm phones by then were dial.

This year, the USDA reports, 98 per cent of all farm phones were dial types. According to the survey report, the remaining two per cent was about evenly divided between the lift or magneto type and the new push-button system.

Officials said 86 per cent of the nation's farms now have telephone service, compared with 67 per cent in 1960, and 34 per cent in 1947.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin is scheduled to leave today for Turkey to discuss with government officials there possible crop alternatives for Turkish farmers ordered to quit growing opium poppies.

Hardin's mission was announced in September by President Nixon. An Agriculture Department team of specialists has been in Turkey the past month to help prepare recommendations for a final report on the opium poppy situation.

Turkey earlier banned further poppy production, and the United States has pledged help in finding alternative crops for producers.

Duck Is Costly

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — A duck walked into Susan Bayles' life Sunday—right in front of her car.

State Police said the 18-year-old Plainville girl swerved the car to avoid hitting the duck, but rammed into a bridge abutment, sending a passenger to the hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

The duck was unharmed, the car was demolished and Susan was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Urges Fall Garden Clean-Ups

A thorough fall clean-up in the garden helps reduce insect and disease problems next year and provides some valuable compost raw material.

Many insects and diseases overwinter in leaves and rubbish left on the ground. Removal helps keep down infections next year.

Remember, however, insects and diseases are carried by wind, water, animals, insects, and people. Therefore, garden cleanliness alone will not eliminate all pests. But, it can reduce them appreciably.

"Trash" from the garden is valuable for compost only if it is not laden with diseases and insects. Do not put heavily infected plants on the compost heap. Such plants should be removed or destroyed.

Diseased plants in compost will only make compost that spreads disease. However, if compost containing diseased material is left unused for several years there is less chance it will still carry much disease.

Even after crop refuse has been removed from the garden, remaining leaves and stems can carry disease for the next year. To eliminate this, plow or dig the garden in the fall.

Plowing covers much of the remaining refuse and causes it to decay faster so less disease can survive the winter.

Grasshopper eggs will also be exposed to birds and weather by fall cultivation.

Here are a few specific problems that can be removed during the fall clean-up.

1—Leaf spot diseases of trees are quite common and easy to recognize. Dead spots on leaves can easily be seen. If they have been present during the growing season on shade trees, do not use the leaves for mulch or compost. Destroy or remove them.

2—Peonies are often attacked by blight or leaf spot. Cut off and remove plant tops and destroy them.

3—Iris leaf spot is caused by a fungus as are many leaf spot diseases. Any infected leaves should be removed now and again in spring if new spots appear.

4—Black spot of roses can be carried over on dead leaves lying on the ground. Although it may also be carried on the stem, the elimination of dead leaves will greatly slow down the rate of infection next year.

5—Borers may be eliminated from such plants as lilac and rose. Roses are attacked by a borer that infects the canes after pruning. If cut canes have holes in the end, the borer may be present. Cut the cane off below the tunnel in the pith of the cane. Cover future cuts with shellac or tree wound dressing so the insect will not enter the cane.

6—Mildew and rusts attack many types of plants. Crop rotation may help reduce their buildup in an area. The fall clean-up also helps reduce the source of infection.

Israeli Defenses

On Canal Beefed

WASHINGTON (AP) — American intelligence analysts are telling U.S. officials that Israel is strengthening its defenses along the Suez Canal, showing no sign of intention to pull back.

The reports, circulated in the past 10 days, come at a time when Israel and Egypt appear to be toughening their diplomatic positions.

U.S. diplomats have been trying to arrange an interim settlement that, among other things, would include a ceasefire, withdrawal of Israeli forces from the canal, and Egyptian crossing of the canal to clear and open it.

Defense sources said the Israelis have thrown up a tall, earthen wall along the entire length of the Bar-Lev line, a system of underground bunkers linked by trenches.

Built into the wall are more than 150 protected ramps onto which tanks could be driven to bring their guns to bear on any Egyptian forces crossing the canal.

Israeli engineers also have provided about 50 passageways through which infantry and armor could counter-attack, U.S. sources said.

An extensive effort is under way to improve and enlarge strong points. Reports tell of large quantities of pre-cast concrete modules, barbed wire, sandbags and other materials stocked in those strong point areas. The areas are manned by infantry rifle companies supported by tanks.

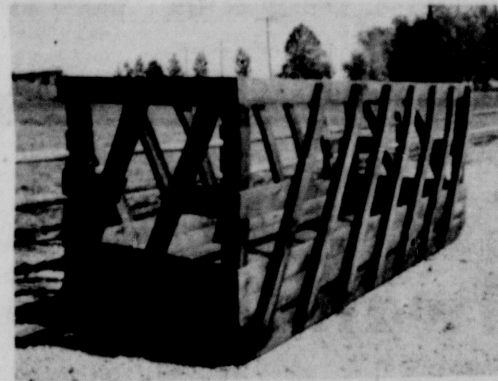

Over the weekend, a Lebanese newspaper claimed Egypt has prepared a plan for limited crossings of the canal, to be followed by a major invasion of the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

U.S. sources have reported in

Blacks See 'Plot' Of Birth Control

Comedian Dick Gregory, one-time funnyman turned deadly serious civil rights fighter, recommends big families as the black man's answer to "genocide." "I'm one black cat who's going to have all the kids he wants," he writes in Ebony magazine. "White folks can have their birth control. Personally, I've never trusted anything white folks tried to give us with the word 'control' in it."

Gregory and his wife are the parents of eight children and are expecting a ninth.

Aside from the fact that he must know that birth control is an extremely slow, extremely inefficient and extremely uncertain way to kill off an entire race — which is what genocide means — what Gregory recommends is the worst possible advice he could give blacks who are struggling to improve themselves.

He is not alone in his attitude, unfortunately. A large minority of black males 30 and under see family planning and birth control as a subtle approach to genocide, says Dr. William A. Darity of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

"No matter how the professional family planner may feel," he says, "the most pressing need in the black community is not family planning services . . . (but) programs which will raise the general socio-economic status of the black population."

"Concern and support and participatory activity (in family planning) will only come when concrete programs which will raise the level of human dignity are evident."

If Western history is any guide, Darity is probably quite right. Prosperity has always preceded family planning.

Traditionally, birth control was practiced only by the upper classes. In modern times, it was not abstract concern about world overpopulation but the desire for material betterment that spread the practice of birth control among the general population.

Blacks have that same desire. Give them the same possibilities of realizing it and there will be no more talk about genocide.

U.S. Won't Reject Taiwan Commitment

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The United States will continue without reservation to guarantee militarily the defense of Nationalist China on Taiwan against invasion.

After talking with key officials in the White House, Pentagon and State Department, it can be stated that the United States will be prepared to use air, naval and technical units in that defense and to supply arms, equipment and munitions.

Cromley

No U.S. ground troops Kai-shek's forces are sufficiently large and well-trained to handle all infantry requirements.

For some time the State Department had been informally discussing whether it would be practical and advisable to reduce the small contingent of U.S. troops maintained on the island.

Officials have cut back the activities of the Seventh Fleet in the area so that this government would not "antagonize" the People's Republic of China.

But there has been no thought of abandoning our commitment to defend Nationalist China, neither to make points with Peking nor to conform with sentiments expressed in the United Nations.

As a result of the U.N. vote to expel the Nationalists, informed officials say in fact that there may now have to be a delay in reducing the U.S. military contingent on the island because of the psychological repercussions such a move would have at this time. An eventual reduction is almost certain.

These decisions do not imply that the Nixon administration would stand in the way of friendly relations between the governments in Peking and Taipei, or even a union of the two nations if that developed as the result of direct negotiations. The Peking government is known to have made recent feelers toward Taiwan and its leadership.

The United States will continue its well-defend-Taiwan stance for the foreseeable future, even though U.S. officials can now be expected to recognize mainland China and end their diplomatic relations with the Nationalists.

But all those nations which conceivably could be involved in the military defense of Taiwan voted for the retention of that island country in the U.N. These included Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines. South Korea, not being a U.N. member itself, could not vote on the issue but it favored Taiwan's continued membership.

With diplomatic recognition or without.

with U.N. membership or without, Taiwan still has considerable political and economic clout. It does considerable exporting and importing, and its major trading partners are not about to let go of that trade, even if they are required to set up "unofficial" arrangements. This the British have already done. There are British government commercial representatives in Taipei and Nationalist Chinese commercial representatives in Great Britain.

It is likely that after the reaction has set in to the United Nations vote and the countries involved have second thoughts on what they have done in expelling a loyal member of their congregation, the U.S. position in defending Taiwan may gain more respect.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Despite pious protestations to the contrary, the Nixon administration has been hounding the 80-year-old former speaker of the House, John McCormack, who retired from public life last January, with a presidential plaque.

President Nixon proclaimed his "great admiration and respect" for McCormack, and White House press secretary Ron Ziegler solemnly denied that the administration was investigating McCormack's activities. Yet on Sept. 13, two U.S. attorneys, Richard Ben-Veniste and W. Cullen MacDonald, paid a quiet call on the old man and grilled him about a hardship discharge he had sought for a Navy enlisted man.

The two investigators finally agreed not to bait the grieving McCormack in his hospital room where he is keeping a lonely vigil at the bedside of his beloved wife Harriet. During more than 50 years of marriage, he has never spent a night apart from her. Now he has moved into Washington's Providence Hospital where he sits day after day beside the life-long companion who, sadly, seldom recognizes him.

McCormack balked at answering the gumshoes' questions at the hospital for fear it might upset his wife. So arrangements for the interview were made at the Washington law office of his nephew, Edward McCormack.

The former speaker's answers will be presented to a federal grand jury in Miami. His former aide, Doctor Martin Sweig, will also be brought to Miami from the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., for questioning tomorrow.

We exposed how Swig, using McCormack's name and sometimes imitating his voice, fixed federal cases for a five percenter named Nathan Voloshen. Swig is now serving a 30-month sentence for perjury.

We emphasized, however, that our investigation showed no skulduggery by the former speaker. He did government favors for his friends and constituents in the tradition of South Boston's "Last Hurrah" politics. But we could find no evidence that he ever took a penny for these favors. On the contrary, he carefully segregated his personal and congressional accounts, scrupulously paying all personal postage, telephone calls and other bills out of his own pocket. He routinely turned down campaign contributions, since he had almost no campaign expenses.

We reported that the Nixon administration, nevertheless, was conducting a criminal investigation of McCormack at the same time that President Nixon honored him at a White House luncheon. Our story brought an angry denial from press secretary Ron Ziegler, who called in reporters to tell them:

"I very seldom do this, but I want to give you this bit of information that appeared in a column by Jack Anderson . . . I would like to volunteer and state quite categorically that any allegations that the Nixon administration tried in any way to seek or to pin criminal charges on Speaker McCormack, as the column suggests, is totally and absolutely false and without any foundation whatsoever."

Zeigler added, for extra emphasis, that he had "talked with the attorney general" who confirmed that the Justice Department was not investigating McCormack.

Yet even as Ziegler was issuing his categorical denial, a federal grand jury in New York City was trying to pin criminal charges upon the retiring speaker. Three of McCormack's closest friends, who had been invited to the White House luncheon in his honor, were subpoenaed before the grand jury just a few days after listening to the President praise McCormack and present him with a plaque.

The three were Rubin Epstein, president of Boston's City Bank and Trust; George Feldman, former ambassador to Malta and Luxembourg; and Peter Ciocherty, consultant for a Boston engineering firm. They were asked whether they had ever given McCormack any payments or gifts in return for government favors.

The grand jury also subpoenaed McCormack's financial records from the Boston City Bank and demanded all the Ciocherty firm's records relating to federal contracts. The testimony completely exonerated McCormack, and the bank records showed he had only a modest savings account. The old man's total net worth, an accumulation of a lifetime, was estimated around $100,000.

A few days ago, the Justice Department's Richard Ben-Veniste turned up in Boston where he is still prying into McCormack's affairs. He went through the speaker's private papers which are stored at Boston University. McCormack had willingly given him permission to examine them. The U.S. attorney made off with a file dealing with a hardship discharge for H. A. Keller, Jr., son of a Miami industrialist. The young man had sought to get out of the Navy in 1959 because of his wife's poor health.

The Justice Department's gumshoes also questioned McCormack about his relationship with Michael Silbert of Miami.

They asked whether he had accepted any payments, gifts or contributions from Silbert for seeking Keller's discharge. The ex-speaker replied that he had known Silbert for 15 years but had never accepted anything more substantial from him than a box of cigars.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, has offered to help soften Swig's sentence in return for his "cooperation." Swig's attorney, Paul Smith, told us the inference, if never stated outright, was that Swig should give evidence against McCormack.

This is what has happened since Ziegler, in behalf of the President and attorney general, denied our story about the investigation of McCormack. It may give the public an idea as to the worth of a White House denial.

Carl Rowan U.S., India Relations Strained

WASHINGTON — There is something sad and inexplicable about the continuing bad relations between the United States and India.

The world's most powerful democracy and the world's most populous democracy seem constantly to be rubbing each other's nerves raw, even on issues where both the U.S. and India have little trouble reaching an accommodation with other countries.

In December, 1969, the Indian prime minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, told L. K. Jha that she was naming him ambassador to Washington with one idea in mind: he must make relations with the U.S. as good as India's relations with the Soviet Union.

Jha has been here a year and a half, helplessly watching Indo-American relations deteriorate to what may be the lowest point ever. Meanwhile, the Soviets have won even more prestige and influence with India's government and her 537 million people.

Now the U.S. is on a kick of wooing Communist China with neither the U.S. government nor the public appearing to give two hoots about what happens to the world's second most populous country, India.

Mrs. Gandhi comes to Washington on an official visit this week, and there is a grave question as to whether she and President Nixon together can halt the drift of the two countries toward lasting political hostility.

The threat of warfare between India and Pakistan will surely be uppermost in Mrs. Gandhi's mind. For two decades, conflict with Pakistan has been at the heart of India's troubles with the United States. The U.S. has steadfastly refused to accept the notion that friendship with India meant that India's enemies automatically become Uncle Sam's foes.

But there are dimensions of India's current troubles with Pakistan that deserve the understanding, interest and action of the White House and the rest of the world. Unless Mrs. Gandhi can inspire such understanding and action, a new tragic wave of warfare on the Indian subcontinent seems inevitable.

West Pakistani refugees fleeing the grim oppressions of the Pakistan army have put terrible strains, financial, political and social, on India. The Bangla Desh conflict has put India in a position where war seems certain unless the U.S. and other countries pressure Pakistan's President Yahya Khan to agree to a settlement. So far Mr. Nixon has not seen fit to pressure Pakistan, and there is doubt that Mrs. Gandhi will be able to prod Nixon into this kind of action.

In the fiscal year ending last March, India spent $800 million caring for what now are 9.5 million West Pakistani refugees. The cost in the current year will be more than $1.2 billion. This is more than all the foreign aid going to India for refugees, economic development and other causes. One result is that India already has curtailed programs designed to uplift her vast backward areas.

No less ominous is the rise in communal tensions. More than 8 million of the 9.5 million Bengalis who have fled Moslem Pakistan are Hindus. Indian extremists are now insisting that India force 8 million of her 60 million Moslem residents into Pakistan and thus create an economic crisis which some economists say would swamp Pakistan and create chaos. Indian leaders swear they would never resort to this kind of tactic.

So the refugees continue to flood into India, many of them eating better than the ordinary Calcutta resident. In fact, the government is also being attacked because the refugees will work for one rupee (13 cents) a day, undermining the normal laborer's wage of 3 rupees.

Officials here assume that Mrs. Gandhi is too proud to ask President Nixon for more economic help; she will hope that the need is already obvious. But she surely will try to convince Mr. Nixon that world peace requires that he pressure the Pakistanis to resolve the Bangla Desh affair promptly.

However, the U.S.'s chronic troubles with India seem to grow deeper than such matters as U.S. military aid to Pakistan. American leaders, whether Democratic or Republican, seem to become severely irritated by what they consider a "more moral than thou" Indian posture.

Indians point out that for years they were the targets of American anger because they advocated good relations with Communist China and the Soviet Union — a stance the U.S. now has adopted. They say they were ridiculed by Americans year after year for pressing to get Peking into the UN — a position the U.S. now takes. They say they bugged Americans by arguing that U.S. warfare in Vietnam was a mistake — a point on which most Americans now agree.

Indians profess an inability to understand why they arouse ire among Americans just by being right.

"Being right is bad enough, but being superciliously right is irritating as hell," explains one Indian official.

It is on such attitudes that great matters of state, of war and peace, often turn. We all ought to hope that these kinds of emotional hangups and petty sensitivities will not get in the way when Mrs. Gandhi and Mr. Nixon attempt to put the two countries on a friendship course that they should have been on all along.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Ely Culbertson was a great showman and publicity genius. Back in 1935 he persuaded Hal and Dorothy Sims to play a rubber bridge match against him and Jo Culbertson. The match was a natural from a publicity standpoint and also a cinch for Ely. Jo Culbertson was a great player; Dorothy Sims a poor one."

Jim: "Here is a hand which shows Jo Culbertson at her best. It also indicates why the Simses had no chance. Three no-trump was unbeatable but Hal wanted to score his honors and also to play the hand."

Oswald: "Jo opened the four of spades. She could see that Ely would not show up with much and decided on desperate measures."

Jim: "The desperate measures succeeded. Sims elected to try dummy's jack of spades at trick one. Ely produced the queen and returned a trump. Sims drew trumps and decided to knock out the ace of clubs. Jo went up with the ace and underled her ace of spades a second time. No one can blame Sims for going wrong and playing low from dummy."

Oswald: "Hal could also have made the hand by taking a diamond finesse and discarding a spade but that play would be bad percentage. He was sure of his contract if East held the ace of clubs and still had a chance in spades after Jo won the club trick."

The bidding has been:
West North East South
Pass 2 ♣ Pass 1 ♠

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 4 ♥ K 6 ♦ A Q 10 8 5 ♣ K 10 9

What do you do now?

A—This is a very tough bid. 2 NT and 3 NT are inadequate; 3 diamonds indicates a longer diamond suit. If your partner won't pass three clubs make that bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do bid three clubs. Your partner bids three no-trump. What do you do now?

Chiefs, Raiders Battle to Tie

...And the Old Man's Magic Works Again

Podolak Scores Six...

OAKLAND (AP) — "From here on we both have to be good until our next meeting," said Oakland Raiders Coach John Madden, sizing up the National Football League's best race.

The Raiders battled Kansas City to a 20-20 standoff Sunday in what Chiefs Coach Hank Stram called "a game between two excellent football teams."

Besides being good, the Raiders are lucky enough to have George Blanda. The 44-year-old quarterback and kicker proved again Sunday that his miraclemaking of last season was no fluke.

With Oakland behind 20-10 in the last quarter, Blanda came off the bench to throw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff.

Then, with 2:31 left, Blanda tied the score with an eight-yard field goal that made him pro football's all-time leading scorer.

"These things just happen to you when you play 22 years," said Blanda, who broke into the NFL with the Chicago Bears in 1949 and has scored 1,609 points since.

Lou Groza of the Cleveland Browns scored 1,608 points in 22 seasons in the NFL and All-American Conference.

The Chiefs and Raiders, who have matched strides since the season began, have 5-1-1 records and remain tied for first in the Western Division of the American Football Conference. They play in Kansas City Dec. 12, the next-to-last Sunday of the season.

Blanda's clutch field goal Sunday came after the Chiefs stopped running back Don Highsmith inches short of the goal line on a third down play.

"I thought I was in," Highsmith said, adding that he wished

Madden had let the Raiders try for a touchdown on the next play.

"The only time you don't go for a tie is when a tie won't do you any good," said Madden, who settled for a 17-17 tie in the first Chiefs-Raiders clash of 1970, when Blanda kicked a 48-yard field goal in the closing seconds.

Blanda saved a game for the second straight week Sunday with his fourth quarter play. He directed two touchdown drives a week earlier in a 31-27 win over Cincinnati.

Starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica, who was injured in the Cincinnati game, was healthy enough Sunday despite being sacked four times by the Chiefs.

"I just had a feeling," Madden said, explaining why he called on Blanda again.

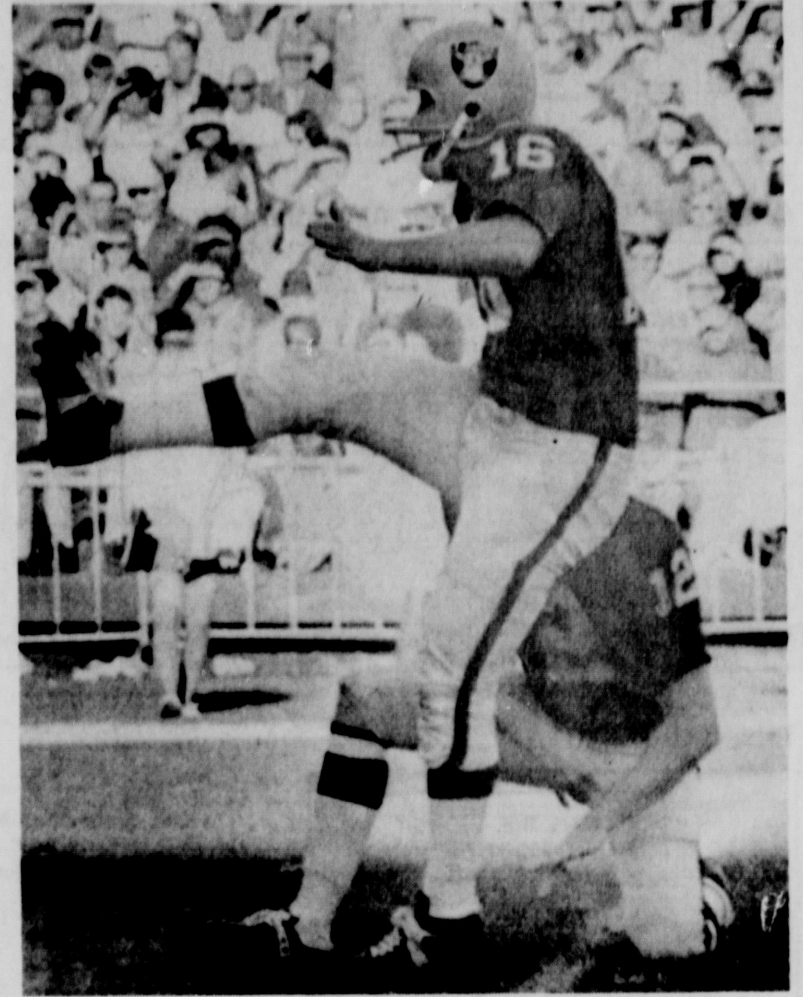

The old pro got the Raiders off the blocks with a 37-yard completion to Ray Chester and threw the touchdown pass to Biletnikoff two plays later.

Biletnikoff, who lost young cornerback David Hadley on the play, caught seven passes for 128 yards in the game.

Ed Podolak scored two Kansas City touchdowns on short runs in the first half before leaving the game with a leg injury, and Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 12 and 37 yards for the Chiefs in the second half.

Oakland, which trailed 14-10 at the half, got its first two scores on a 17-yard Blanda field goal and a one-yard run by Marv Hubbard.

Tackle Bob Brown, the biggest member of the Raiders' offensive line, left the game with a knee injury and will be examined Monday.

Eagles Defeat Broncos

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Kansas City and Oakland waged the fiercest pro football war in Sunday's National Football League action, the Philadelphia Eagles, the Chicago Bears and the Houston Oilers shared some of the spotlight.

Philadelphia took advantage of a fumble, a blocked punt and two late pass interceptions Sunday to edge the Denver Broncos, 17-16.

The Chicago Bears let the Dallas Cowboys outgain them 481 yards to 194, but won where it counted — on the scoreboard, 23-19.

Houston, who had not won a regular-season game all year, whipped the Cincinnati Bengals, 10-6.

Other scores from Sunday's NFL contests: San Francisco 27, New England 10; Miami 20, Los Angeles 14; Washington 24, New Orleans 14; Minnesota 17, New York Giants 10; Atlanta 31; Cleveland 14; Baltimore 34, Pittsburgh 21; San Diego 49, New York Jets 21 and St. Louis 28, Buffalo 23.

San Francisco, 5-2, took over first place in the National Football Conference's Western Division, one-half game ahead of Los Angeles, beating New England with the help of John Brodie's 71-yard touchdown toss to Gene Washington.

Miami knocked the Rams, 4-2-1, out of the top spot in the NFC's West, downing Los Angeles on the strength of two scoring strikes by Bob Griese, one a 74-yarder to Paul Warfield. The victory kept the Dolphins in first place in the AFC's East with a 5-1-1 mark, just ahead of Baltimore's 5-2.

Washington, the surprising pacesetter in the NFC's East, built its record to 6-1 and its advantage over runner-up Dallas to two games, holding off New Orleans on Pat Fischer's 53-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass midway in the final period.

Minnesota, on top in the NFC's Central Division, handed the Giants their fourth consecutive setback on Norm Snead's 55-yard touchdown pass to Bob Grim with 1:04 remaining. The Vikings are 6-1 to 5-2 for second-place Chicago.

Cleveland, 4-3, the AFC's Central Division leader, dropped its second in a row, as former teammate Dick Shiner of Atlanta helped beat them with scoring shots of 39 yards to Ken Burrow and 23 yards to Jim Mitchell.

Little Finds Hole

Denver's Floyd Little (44) finds a hole between Philadelphia's Don Hultz (83) and Gary Ballman (85) as he goes to the one-half yard line to set up the Broncos' first touchdown, Sunday, in Philadelphia. The action came in the second quarter. The Eagles won their second game in a row, 17-16, by taking advantage of some late mistakes by Denver. (UPI)

Cardinals Edge Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — "Oh, those special teams hurt us," moaned Coach Harvey Johnson of the Buffalo Bills.

Then he ticked off a list of mistakes made by his special teams—allowing a 56-yard game-opening kickoff return, having too many players on the field when they blocked a punt and fumbling away another kickoff return.

This comment followed the Bills' 28-23 loss Sunday to the St. Louis Cardinals in a National Football League game. It was winless Buffalo's seventh loss of this season and 12th in a row since their victory over the old Boston Patriots one year ago today.

On the opening kickoff, Larry Williamson rammed to Buffalo's 44. Nine plays later St. Louis was on the score board following MacArthur Lane's one-yard dive over the line.

At the start of the second half, Tim Beamer fumbled on the kickoff and St. Louis recovered on Buffalo's 16. Two runs picked up 10 yards, then quarterback Jim Hart tossed a 10-yard pass into the end zone to Jackie Smith.

The Bills, trailing 21-16 in the third period, blocked Jim Bakken's try for a 34-yard field goal. They drew a five-yard penalty for too many men on the field, giving the Cardinals a first and 10 on Buffalo's 22. Hart's pass to Jim McFarland from the five-yard line four plays later netted St. Louis its fourth touchdown.

"I hate to say this again,"

PERFECT START

LOUISVILLE (AP) — "It won't make me mad if you go in there and return the first kickoff for a touchdown," Kentucky coach John Ray told his squad before the opening game with Clemson.

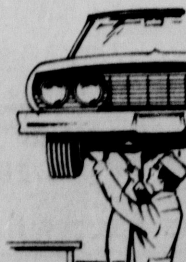

Doug Kotar, handling the ball for the first time in a varsity game, took the opening kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown.

Heart of America Conference championship deadlock.

Northeast bolstered its position atop the MIAA standings with its fourth consecutive triumph, a 16-3 verdict over Northwest. Northeast is 3-0 in the league and has lost only to powerful Arkansas State in seven starts.

Washington established itself as the class of the four state independents with a 34-12 trouncing of Carnegie-Mellon, Pa. It was the third straight victory for the St. Louis school and boosted its record to 4-2.

William Jewell threw the HOA standings into a two-team dogfight by felling last week's leader, Missouri Valley, 17-14 on Bill Womack's 12-yard field goal with 4:51 remaining.

It was the first loss of the season to a Missouri team for Valley's Vikings, whose only other loss was to Washburn, Kan. The Cardinals boosted their campaign total to 4-3 while matching Valley's 4-1 loop record.

The University of Missouri-Rolla took over second in the MIAA with a 25-14 pasting of Central. The Miners are 2-0-1 and 4-2-1 for all games. Lincoln University stayed in contention at 1-1 by nudging Southeast, 14-13.

In the only other MIAA action, winless Southwest dropped a 32-21 game to Eastern Illinois.

Culver-Stockton posted its second straight shutout, 27-0 over Eureka, Ill., for its third victory against five losses. But the other two state independents lost again and saw their season records dip to 2-6. Southern was a 26-21 victim of Morningside, Iowa; Kearney State, Neb., handled Western, 31-7.

While Missouri Valley and William Jewell were staging their Heart of America battle Saturday, two other state members of the HOA were involved in close decisions.

Tarkio used a 30-yard, third-quarter touchdown dash by Joe Greco for a 6-0 nod over Baker. Central Methodist was tripped by Graceland, 12-9.

That left Graceland with a 2-1-1 league record to take against Missouri Valley this week while William Jewell meets Baker at Baldwin, Kan. If the co-leaders win Saturday, Valley has only College of Emporia (2-4) left on its league schedule while Jewell closes against Baker, 0-5-2.

Quarterback Bob Gibson sparked Northeast with a pair of touchdown strikes, 55 yards to Lenvil Elliott and 34 yards to Larry Jones.

Lincoln held off Southeast when linebacker Demetrick Jackson stopped a two-point conversion run attempt by John Gabrish with 3:29 remaining.

Red Wings End Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Red Wings won a game but lost a coach.
"I asked them if they would win this one for me and they did," said Doug Barkley, who resigned after Detroit's 3-1 National Hockey League victory over Pittsburgh Sunday night.
The triumph broke a four-game losing streak. The spin was the main reason for Barkley's departure.
"I just couldn't get the team going," said Barkley, who was replaced by Johnny Wilson, a former Red Wing who coached in the American Hockey League.
The switch in leadership followed two other changes over the weekend. Bill McCreary replaced Sid Abel at St. Louis and Fred Glover succeeded Larry Regan at Los Angeles.
Goaltender Al Smith made Barkley's departure a little sweeter, outdueling Penguin goalie Roy Edwards. The Red Wing was the busier of the two, turning aside 35 shots.

In the other NHL games, it was Vancouver 6, Chicago 2; New York 3, Toronto 3; Philadelphia 5, Montreal 3; Boston 5, Minnesota 2 and California tied Buffalo 2-2.
The Penguins, winless in six games, applied heavy pressure on Smith when they outshot Detroit 16-8 and took a 1-0 lead on Greg Polis' goal at 6:05. Ron Stackhouse scored on a power play at 2:25 of the second period and Red Berenson scored the winning goal at 12:08 for Detroit.
Ted Taylor slammed in two goals in a four-goal outburst in the third period, lifting Vancouver over Chicago. After the Black Hawks pulled into a 2-2 tie on Pit Martin's goal with 5:09 gone in the last period, Danny Johnson shoveled home the go-ahead goal at 8:14 before Taylor's two-goal explosion.
Third period goals by Dave Keon and Jim Harrison salvaged a tie for Toronto. The Leafs trailed 3-1 after New York rattled off a 19-shot first period but put together some tight checking and their late rally to deadlock the Rangers.

Simon Nolet scored three times as Philadelphia rallied for five goals in the third period to beat Montreal.
Derek Sanderson and Ken Hodge scored two goals apiece as Boston snapped Minnesota's seven game unbeaten streak.
Buffalo's Kevin O'Shea scored a last minute goal to pull the Sabres into a 2-2 tie with the California Golden Seals in late action on the West Coast.

$227,243 Trevino Sets Mark in Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer.
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Lee Trevino, with his sixth title of the year in his pocket and an all-time money winning record in the books, set out for Mexico today in search of a fourth national open golf championship.
"That's what I really want to do, win a fourth national open championship for a grand slam," the Super Mex said Sunday after taking the Sahara Invitational and establishing a single season money winning record of $227,243.
Trevino, four strokes off the pace starting the final round Sunday, fired a six under-par 66 and vaulted past third round leader Bob Dickson with a 73-hole total of 280.
It was his first victory since his unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles was completed in Southampton, England, July 11. While most of the American touring pros are taking a couple of weeks off, Trevino is entered in the Mexican Open, a $30,000 event, at the Club de Golf in Mexico City starting this Thursday.

But he hinted that he may change his announced plans of playing in the rest of the tournaments on the American tour. It all depends on the chase for the money winning title.
Big George Archer also had a 66 and took second at 281, but never really challenged Trevino, who has emerged this season as the dominant figure in the game.
Dickson slipped to third with a 72 for 282, falling behind when Trevino reeled off a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the sixth hole. Don January was alone in third at 283, followed by Ron Cerrudo at 285 and Gay Brewer and Fred Marti at 286.
Arnold Palmer, never really a factor, had a final 73 for 290, well back. Jack Nicklaus, who held the No. 1 money winning spot with $207,080, did not compete. Palmer now has $196,206, the best of his fabled career.

Hayes Walks Out Of Houston Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I think he is upset because he is not playing like he wants to," said Houston Coach Tex Winter in trying to explain the unexpected walkout of his star center, Elvin Hayes.
Hayes, the Rockets' high-scoring 6-foot-9 pivotman, left Sunday night's National Basketball Association game against Buffalo in the second quarter and did not return.
Despite Hayes' absence, the Rockets went on to win 102-87, but it was only their second victory in 10 games this season. In other NBA games, Milwaukee beat Cleveland 118-102, and Golden State defeated Los Angeles 109-105.

Hayes, who scored 10 points before his surprising departure, said he left because of an injured leg. But Winter, in his first season as Houston coach, apparently thought otherwise.
"He's not as effective as he would like to be," said the former Kansas State and Washington coach. "He makes it very difficult for me to coach the team as a unit. I don't think the way some of the players have been playing is good enough. I think we can do better if we can play together as a unit."

"I made it clear to the entire team at halftime what I expected of them," he continued. "I will not have my authority challenged no matter who it is. You can't win without discipline."
Winter said he would sit down with Hayes and the Rockets' management and discuss the situation.

Helpless

Cleveland Cavaliers' Walt Wesley watches helplessly as Milwaukee's Kareem Jabbar scores in the opening half of the Bucks-Cavaliers' NBA tilt, Sunday. Jabbar, formerly Lew Alcindor, wound up with 35 points as the Bucks won their eighth game in the last nine starts, 118-102. (UPI)

Rookie Cliff Meely led Houston with 19 points and Dick Cunningham, Hayes' replacement, chipped in with 10 points.
Kareem Jabbar, formerly Lew Alcindor, scored 13 points and Bob Dandridge had 12 as Milwaukee raced to a commanding 30-15 first-quarter lead against Cleveland, then coasted to its eighth victory in nine starts. Jabbar finished with 35 points.
Clutch field goals in the closing minutes by Cazzie Russell and Joe Ellis pulled Golden State past Los Angeles. Russell wound up with 32 points, while the Lakers' Gail Goodrich had 38.
In Saturday night's NBA games, it was: Philadelphia 108, New York 101; Detroit 104, Atlanta 99; Baltimore 101, Phoenix 94; Seattle 115, Los Angeles 106, and Golden State 116, Cincinnati 112.

Sliding in Pairs

Detroit defenseman Ron Stackhouse (21) and Pittsburgh's Rene Robert (14) battle at mid-ice for control of the puck during the opening period of the Red Wings-Penguins' National Hockey League game, Sunday, in Detroit. The Red Wings won the game, 3-1. (UPI)

Devaney Says . . .

'Best Team Ever'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Coach Bob Devaney now concedes that the current Nebraska football team "is my best team . . . up to this point."
He made the statement after the top-ranked Cornhuskers battered ninth-ranked Colorado Saturday 31-7. Devaney said, "Everybody's been saying, including us, that we hadn't played a really tough team."
"You have to classify Colorado as a really tough team. I know I'd rather play some other teams in the Top Ten than Colorado."
While Nebraska was spanking Colorado, second-ranked Oklahoma disposed of Iowa State 43-12; Kansas State downed Missouri 28-12, and Oklahoma State nipped Kansas 17-10 in other Big Eight Conference games.

Devaney now must prepare Nebraska for Saturday's game at home against Iowa State and make certain the Cornhuskers aren't looking ahead to the Nov. 25 showdown with Oklahoma.

"They're intelligent kids, and they know the minute they start thinking past one team to another," Devaney said, "some team is going to knock us off."
"I can't anticipate whether we'll have a problem of looking past a team but right now, we've got to concentrate on Iowa State, and then next week, we'll think about Kansas State."

Cornhusker quarterback Jerry Tagge, who completed 10 of 17 passes for 144 yards and one touchdown and scored once himself against Colorado, said, "The coaches have taught us that we have to play one game at a time, and everything will take care of itself."

Of the Colorado game, Devaney said, "Again, we showed balance between our offense and defense, showed balance between running and passing."
Nebraska made a believer out of Eddie Crowder of Colorado, who takes his team to Kansas Saturday. "Nebraska has the best defense by far we've played against," said Crowder, whose Buffs lost to Oklahoma 45-17 two weeks ago. On a comparison, he added:
"Nebraska has the better defense but Oklahoma has the better offense. I think Oklahoma's triple option will go pretty good against them. Nebraska will have to score a lot of points to win."

Nebraska's Jeff Kinney scored on runs of 11 and three yards, bringing his career total to 29 for a school record. Nebraska, 8-0 and 4-0 in the Big Eight, now has gone 27 games without a loss. Colorado is 6-2 and 3-2.
Jack Mildren, Oklahoma's quarterback, had the greatest day ever for a Sooner back against the Cyclones, 5-2 and 2-2. He completed seven of 12 passes for 175 yards and rushed 23 times for 148 yards. He scored twice and threw two TD passes.
The Cyclones used a stacked defense to hold Greg Pruitt to 159 yards and one touchdown. They got one touchdown on Willie Jones' 95-yard kickoff return.

"Mildren's quarterback of the wishbone is unparalleled," said Cyclone Coach Johnny Majors. "He makes their offense go."
Disturbed about Oklahoma's eight fumbles, Coach Chuck Fairbanks said, "You don't have a perfect game every time, I'm glad to get by this one."
Oklahoma, 7-0 and 3-0, goes to Missouri Saturday.
Dennis Morrison engineered Kansas State's victory over Missouri, now 1-7 and 0-4. He connected on 15 of 33 passes for 264 yards, including a 40-yard TD pitch to Isaac Jackson, who also ran three yards to score.

"Morrison's protection was super," said Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State, 3-5, and 1-4. "Against Missouri, it's tough to complete the high-percentage pass because of their man coverage but Morrison got the big-play passes."

Missouri had taken a 6-0 lead on John Henley's reception of Jack Bastable's 25-yard pass. Henley's six pass receptions brought his career total to 81 and broke the record of 75 set by Hal Burnine in 1953-1956.

Overtime Periods Needed During Tournament Play

In a day that nearly turned into a soccer marathon, the Congo Boys Club of St. Louis and the Overland (Mo.) Dairy teams won the championships of the juvenile and junior divisions in Sunday's title games of the annual Sedalia Soccer Invitational at Centennial Park.

Junior Football League Season Is Concluded

The Sedalia Junior Football League ended the 1971 season Sunday in Jennie Jaynes Stadium with three teams from Lexington.
Neil Richards scored three touchdowns, all on kickoff and punt returns, to lead the Sedalia Vikings past the Lexington Trojans, 28-0.
Mark Englund scored the other TD on a 32-yard pass reception.

Greg January scored four times and Pete Heppner three times as the Lexington Indians humbled the Sedalia Tigers, 56-0.
The Sedalia Wildcats whipped the Lexington Vikings, 40-0 in the final game of the season.
Lazermore Washington scored a pair of TD's, while teammates Joe Fischer, Jerry Raines and Dale Boggs scored one each in the victory.
Raines became the first SJFL player this season to kick an extra point; he did it twice in the Wildcats' win.
The annual SJFL awards banquet will be held in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria, Tuesday night at 6:30.

Three of the four championship and third-place games needed overtime to determine the winners.
Dan Blake and "Drag" Drishir of the Congo Boys Club scored two goals for their win over Sedalia Bank and Trust in the juvenile division championship. Drishir netted the winning goal in the second overtime period for the victory.
SB and T's lone goal came on a shot by Aaron Johnson.
Overland Dairy needed a pair of overtime periods to win their championship contest over Our Lady of Sorrows (St. Louis), 2-1.
In what has to be one of the longest soccer games played in the five years of the invitational tournament, the Bruce Smith Drug (St. Louis) squad needed two overtime periods, plus a sudden death overtime to win over Sedalia Town and Country Shoes, 3-2.
Don Smith scored both of the goals for the locals, while Manuel Ruiz and brother Ricardo accounted for all three of the Argonauts' goals. The former had two, while brother Ricardo scored the other in the juvenile division consolation contest.
Steve Allee's two goals led the Northern Knights of Kansas

Realignment Is Proposed

BOSTON (AP) — Vice-president and General Manager Dick O'Connell of the Boston Red Sox had a startling proposal for re-alignment of baseball into three divisions today as general managers began a four-day huddle at Ponta Verda Beach, Fla.
"We would have the East, Midwest and West," O'Connell told baseball writer Fred Ciampa of the Record American-Sunday Advertiser before heading South.
"Leagues of eight teams would provide the best possible scheduling," O'Connell said. "We'd go from the 162 games back to the 154 games and all the teams would be in the same time zone."

"This would be better all around. It would be a boon to the news media as well as the players. The way it is now, when eastern teams play in the far west, the newspapers, radio and television stations get the results very late. And as a result, a lot of local fans don't get the news until the next day."

O'Connell also noted that scheduling would be much easier.

"When we're making up our schedules, we're looking for a Utopia, but that's not possible because of the difference in weather and the difference in time zones," he said.

"The West Division teams come to Boston only twice a year and if you get rain it's a job making up the dates. The same thing applies to any inter-league scheduling."

O'Connell stresses he is against an interleague schedule. He also said he disliked the playoff system, requiring a team to "win over the course of a long season" and then play for the right to get into the World Series.

Under O'Connell's plan, the three divisions would be:
East—Boston, New York Yankees, New York Mets, Pittsburgh, Montreal, Detroit, Baltimore, and Philadelphia.
Midwest—Milwaukee, the Chicago White Sox and Cubs, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Cleveland and Minnesota.
West—Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Oakland, Kansas City, Houston, and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Two Chiefs Injured In Raider Contest

OAKLAND (AP) — Three starting players left Sunday's Kansas City-Oakland National Football League game with injuries.

Offensive tackle Bob Brown of Oakland appeared to be the most seriously injured. He hurt a knee in the third quarter of the game, a 20-20 tie.

Brown's knee was put in a cast and will be examined Monday.

Running back Ed Podolak of the Chiefs also suffered a leg injury and Kansas City cornerback Jim Marmalis hurt a shoulder. They also will be examined Monday.

Barry Asher Holds Lead in Tournament

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, Calif., held on as the leader Sunday night as match play games began in the $50,000 American Airlines Open Bowling Tournament.

The 25-year-old righthander, winner of three pro bowling tournaments, had 6,093 pins for 26 games, 134 more than Don McCune of Munster, Ind.

Asher won seven of eight games Sunday night and picked up 30 bonus pins for each of the seven victories. Nick McMahon of Portland, Ore., was third with 5,827.

The field of 96 pros was reduced to 24 as qualifying ended Sunday. Monday's 16 round robin matches will end with the winner picking up $6,000.

McCreary Makes Pledge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bill McCreary took over as coach of the St. Louis Hockey Blues Sunday with a pledge to improve the club's defense.

"I subscribe to the theory of three goals to win. You don't need four or five if you have good defense," he said.

The 36-year-old McCreary, who was coach of the Blues' farm team, the Denver Spurs, was named Saturday night to succeed Sid Abel as coach.
Abel, in his first season with the Blues, was named general manager and Lynn Patrick, who was the GM, is now vice president. The 53-year-old Abel, who spent 30 years as a player, coach and general manager for the Detroit Red Wings, said at a news conference he didn't think he was getting the right response from the Blues players. "I thought maybe we should make a change," Abel said.

Named to succeed McCreary at Denver was Jean-Guy Talbot, a former Blues' defenseman who has been a scout this year. Talbot, 39, played 12 years for Montreal and joined the Blues in 1968.

The Blues play at Montreal Wednesday. The coach of the Canadiens is Scotty Bowman, who Abel replaced as coach.

Modernization Stirs State Government Branches

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Some exciting things are happening in Missouri's executive and judicial branches of government as the pressures for modernization begin to stir them up.

But thus far, except for annual sessions and higher salaries, the legislative branch is operating much the same as it did in the days when important decisions were made in Jefferson City saloons.

(And many still are made in such places, secretly and without public participation.)

Right now, judicial reform is in the news as a result of action by Ernest H. Fremont Jr., of Kansas City, new president of the Missouri Bar, setting up a committee with the goal of completely modernizing the judicial system.

"We have allowed our court system to become so archaic," Fremont said in announcing his plans, "that haphazard or piecemeal attempts to improve it can no longer be successful."

"There is no excuse for Missourians to have to put up with an outmoded and understaffed judicial system in which judges are underpaid to the extent that, at least in some cases, only the unqualified will accept a judgeship."

He called the quality of magistrate and municipal courts unbelievable. He cited a survey which showed 10 per cent of all municipal judges have less than an eighth grade education, a third have less than a high school education and only 69 of 330 are lawyers.

Linked with the bar's attempt to get a whole new judicial article in the constitution is an effort already under way by the Missouri Supreme Court to modernize court procedures and record keeping.

Wayne Buckner, Missouri's new court administrator, is working full time at this job. Surveys are being made of all courts in Missouri and sooner or later all the old hand written record books, some dating back 150 years, will be replaced by modern methods — in some cases by computerized records subject to instant recall.

This broad approach, covering all branches of the judicial system, is going ahead but the job is so massive it cannot be done overnight.

The same is true of an effort to redraft Missouri's criminal code, a batch of conflicting and obsolete laws also dating back to statehood in some cases.

This work is being done by the House committee under auspices of the attorney general's office and financed by the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

Supreme Court Commissioner

Norwin D. Houser is chairman. Working on the actual drafting are Prof. Edward H. Hunvald Jr. and Asst. Prof. Gary Anderson of the University of Missouri Law School, with the help of many others.

The goal is to present a complete redraft of the criminal code to the 1973 legislature, doing away with obsolete provisions and dragging the area of criminal law into the new and complex world of today.

In the executive branch of the government, the 1971 legislature took a long step into the future by authorizing appointment of an administrator directly under the governor to deal with the day to day problems of operating the state government.

The theory is that the new governor in 1973 will then have a tool which will free him for important policy making decisions, instead of forcing him to sit at his desk, answer the telephone and sign his name to thousands of routine papers.

This was the outgrowth of a recommendation by the present Governmental Reorganization or "Little Hoover" Commission, the third such group, which is expected to have its final report ready for the 1972 legislative session.

Equally far reaching but still in the process of being implemented is the plan to put all computer operations of the huge Revenue Department under private contract.

Bids will be opened Monday in an effort to get another private firm to analyze the complex computer system bids opened Oct. 15. Only four companies submitted bids then to set up a complete facilities management system.

The apparent low bidder was Electronic Preparation Corp. of Bradenton, Fla., but the complexity of the bidding made a detailed analysis necessary.

This is the same company which set up a similar system in Indiana and if it works in Missouri as it has in Indiana, a lot of Revenue Department problems will be solved.

Here's what James O. Mathis, commissioner of the Indiana Department of Revenue said about the new set up in call it "a success beyond our highest expectation."

"The advantages of free enterprise provided opportunities not found in government. Qualified managerial leadership, profit oriented operating concepts and individual incentive pay scales converted the attitudes, philosophy and activity of the entire environment into one with an exciting singleness of purposes."

"The Indiana Revenue Department now has an efficient, responsive, functioning system for less money than was previously spent for one that was inefficient, unresponsive and seldom functional."

The Indiana system was in full operation within six months, using sophisticated modern computer "hardware." It was inspected by Lt. Gov. William S. Morris and administrative services personnel before a decision was made to attempt to duplicate the modernization in Missouri.

Compared with these efforts at modernization, the Missouri legislative branch is lagging far behind.

The Missouri Legislature is still considered a paradise for lobbyists of all sorts as now constituted.

And the lobbyists are quietly — and so far effectively — against any change in the status quo. They like it the way it is.

Brezhnev Gains Stature in Trip

PARIS (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev's trip to Paris last week has confirmed his primacy in the Soviet Communist party and state hierarchy and has presented him as his country's chief foreign policy spokesman.

After ousting the flamboyant Nikita Khrushchev in 1964, his successors appeared to rule as a genuinely collective triumvirate, with Brezhnev as party chief, Alexei N. Kosygin as prime minister, and Leonid Brezhnev as president.

Brezhnev's gradual rise at home was modestly crowned last New Year's Eve when he appeared alone on television to give the traditional address to the nation.

Then at the 24th Soviet party congress last spring, a flood of personal praise washed over Brezhnev. He had clearly outdistanced his colleagues. But, until his visit to France his supremacy had not been demonstrated abroad.

Though he is head of the ruling Soviet Communist party, Brezhnev demanded and got honors usually reserved for a chief of state.

Presumably Brezhnev will continue to lead Soviet negotiations with the West, a task formerly the domain of Kosygin. While France, for its own reasons, was willing to discard established protocol by giving him head-of-state treatment, other nations may be reluctant to do so. As a consequence, some observers are wondering whether Brezhnev, like his predecessor, will eventually combine his party post with that of head of government.

President Georges Pompidou called his guest "the highest authority in the Soviet Union," and Marseille's Socialist mayor, Gaston Defferre, praised him as a man of "vitality, force, even power," who "emanated . . . character."

Replying to Defferre, Brezhnev balanced lip service to the principle of collective leadership with some open self-promotion.

He said he had come to France "charged by my colleagues to do everything possible to develop and enlarge French-Soviet collaboration."

Then he said he spoke "in the name of the Soviet people" and commented: "I agree that each political man or leader must have character. I think it is a question of political character . . . my character is the character of our party, of our people."

Another objective of Brezhnev's trip was symbolized by the letters on the license plate of Pompidou's presidential car which took the visitor around Paris. "PR" for President de la Republique could just as well have stood for public relations.

Known most recently in the West for the Brezhnev Doctrine used to justify the invasion of Czechoslovakia, he tried to overcome his image as the tough party organization man and emerge as the Soviet man with the human face.

L'Humanite, the French Communist party newspaper, launched his visit by publishing an unprecedented interview dealing almost exclusively with his personal life.

He was depicted as an avid hunter, a heavy smoker, a man who loves to drive cars, an essentially modest soul who hasn't changed apartments despite his rise to the top.

In six days of barnstorming, Brezhnev tried to fill out the portrait with mechanical waves and smiles which revealed gold-capped teeth. He constantly fussed with his hair or his coat lapels or wiped his damp forehead with a handkerchief.

But no phrase or gesture aroused the French from their indifference. This may have been partly because the massive security forces insulated Brezhnev from any real public contact. It could also be due to such blunders as his remarks at the Renault auto works at Flins.

Seated behind the wheel of one of Renault's fastest models, Brezhnev asked the director of the company, Pierre Dreyfus, whether the car could do 110 kilometers—68 miles—an hour. "It cruises comfortably at 160," Dreyfus replied politely.

Told the car had front-wheel drive—engineered particularly for its safety—Brezhnev remarked, "That's not very safe is it?"

Batuigas, who went back and forth between the gunman and authorities several times, reported the man was extremely nervous. He said the gunman, whose face was masked by a red bandanna with slits for the eyes and mouth, thrust the shotgun's muzzle into the newsman's stomach when he came too close.

The man told him he had escaped from a prison in Davao, in the southern Philippines.

After 9½ hours of talks, the gunman agreed to release the girl if given the equivalent of $2,000 and a helicopter flight to safety. The plan was for the uncle to turn over the cash once the craft was airborne.

After extended negotiations, the newsman had taken the girl, Susan Butler; her uncle, Stewart Raab, and the gunman to a nearby polo club where they boarded a helicopter owned by the Manila Times.

The helicopter took off, and the paper said a short while after the pilot radioed that he had let the gunman off in Zamboanga province, on the west coast north of Manila. The pilot said he returned to Manila with Susan and Raab.

Susan is the daughter of Charles R. Butler, a local businessman who is on a business trip in the United States.

Police said the gunman and an accomplice had entered the Butler home in fashionable Forbes Park early today, apparently to burglarize the house.

When Mrs. Butler went to a guest house to check on a maid who had been sent to turn on the air conditioner, she found the girl stabbed to death. One of the two intruders shot Mrs. Butler in the hip, police said.

Alerted by the commotion, police arrived at the house and found the dead maid and Mrs. Butler, who was taken to a hospital. Authorities said one man escaped as police were fired on from the house. The other man announced over an intercom system inside that he was holding Susan Butler hostage.

The gunman threatened to kill Susan and himself with his sawed-off shotgun unless police, who occupied the first floor, vacated the house. They did.

Then began a series of negotiations between the man, Raab, newsman Ruther Batuigas and authorities.

The gunman at first agreed to let the newsman and Raab drive him to a spot outside the city but later balked at releasing Susan. A stalemate developed, and police with automatic rifles moved back, into the house.

Rare Tour of Nuclear Submarine

(Editor's note: Frank Carey recently was one of a handful of newsmen given the rare opportunity of riding and diving aboard a Polaris submarine. Here he recounts what he saw.)

By FRANK CAREY . . .
AP science writer . . .

ABOARD THE SUBMARINE
CARVER (AP) — About 100 miles off the Virginia coast, Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover told a startled young officer, "You're dead."

"Take over," he said to a seaman who was watching the panel of a maneuvering control console of this submerged Polaris submarine.

The enlisted man replaced the officer and helped run the show as Rickover gave orders to "scram the reactor," one of the most tense operations aboard a nuclear-powered submarine.

A siren sounded as a flurry of hands operated instrument panels.

The maneuver was an intentional temporary stoppage of the vessel's nuclear power plant accomplished by reducing steam-generating nuclear fission "fires" and shutting off the splitting of a trillion atoms a second of uranium fuel.

It would have been done on a truly emergency basis if something went awry with the power plant and crew and plant were endangered.

Electronics Technician J. John Lennon, 26, of Joliet, Ill., later won a "well done" from his superiors for his job in taking over on Rickover's command.

For Rickover, at 71 still at sea and the oldest officer on active duty in the Navy, the test offered the opportunity to show a small group of newsmen a demonstration seldom seen by civilians.

The Carver is one of 41 Polaris submarines equipped to fire 16 nuclear warhead-tipped missiles which have a range of 2,500 nautical miles. A major component of this nation's shield against nuclear warfare, the submarines are on constant patrol in deep waters.

Thirty-one of the submarines are being readied for conversion to carry even more powerful Poseidon missiles that may have multiple nuclear warheads.

On patrol with the Carver, named for Negro educator and scientist George Washington Carver, the newsmen also experienced other submarine maneuvers.

The Carver dove to a depth of more than 400 feet. The exact depth is classified information.

The submarine also executed a full stop at full, but undisclosed, speed. The hull of the Carver trembled as the vessel suddenly was thrown into reverse throttle by Electrician's Mate Eugene Gihring, 24, of Seattle, Wash.

He later said his only prior experience at a throttle was in "an old Plymouth."

The submarine often rolled badly during a seven-hour surface voyage from Norfolk, Va., where the vessel began its overnight trip.

Such surface rolling in a 25-knot wind would be true of any sub-nosed nuclear-powered submarine like the Carver because it is not designed to run on the sea's surface like conventional, nonnuclear submarines.

When the dive came, Cmdr. Donald Briggs, 41, of Gentry, Ark., the Carver's skipper, ordered, "Make (initial) depth 150 feet."

The Carver began its descent at a four-degree angle and the vessel's surface roll quickly disappeared. Eventually the submarine hit depths at which it might travel on 60-day patrols, although such depths are not disclosed.

Rickover, who walks three miles daily when ashore, set a fast pace as he led newsmen along passageways of the submarine. He climbed and descended the toughest ladders with the finesse of seamen young enough to be his grandsons.

His titles are director of naval reactors for the Atomic Energy Commission and deputy commander for nuclear propulsion for the Navy.

One passageway, called Sherwood Forest by the crew, is flanked on each side by eight fat cylinders stacked like giant trees and extending some 30 feet. The cylinders are designed to hold the Carver's missiles.

The newsmen also saw the Carver's "ship inertial navigation system," a complex of computers, periscopes and instruments designed to enable the vessel to determine its exact position from minute to minute in case it receives an order to fire its missiles.

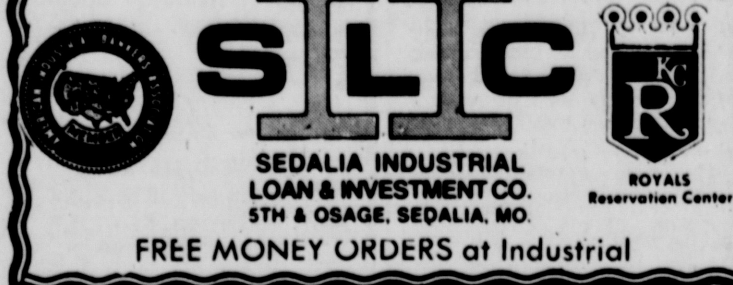

Missiles would be fired from "missile control center."
